

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A convenient method of depositing chemical protection material on the surface of a semiconductor substrate whereby deposition of contaminating substances after a clean surface
5 has been obtained can be prevented and maintaining of this surface performed includes a process of depositing a high molecular straight-chain organic compound 3 onto a highly clean surface 2 of a semiconductor substrate 1 during semiconductor washing or after semiconductor washing of the 10 semiconductor substrate.